

THE PERFECT PARTNERSHIP

GETHIN LLOYD AND THE BRYCE 180 PRO

When Gethin Lloyd, from Denbighshire, started contract fencing 23 years ago he used his father's tractor-mounted post driver until such time as he could afford a one-man tracked post driver. He was not flush with cash.

"I had just moved house and had a small family, so I had to crawl before I could run as far as equipment choice was concerned" said Gethin. Now with two full-time and two part-time employees, Gethin and his team carry out an extremely impressive portfolio of fencing which includes domestic, agri stock fencing, equestrian, post and rail and security.

Moving forward, a tracked post driver was first on the list simply to save labour and increase output.

He couldn't stretch to a Bryce so settled on a Protech to get him started and owned this machine for 4 years. "By this time it was long overdue a replacement so with a heavy workload, I decided to finance a Bryce 180 Pro" said Gethin "and this has proved to have been a very major advance in terms of performance and ability. The Bryce can deal with anything you throw at it no matter the terrain or ground conditions, and answers the call every time – it never lets us down"

▲ Erecting security fencing

Gethin Lloyd erects all types of fences and he has found the Bryce Hole Puncher System to be a revelation when it comes to erecting security or domestic fencing. Quick, no mess as with an auger or digger, the Hole Puncher gives a clean, tight hole

▲ Erecting domestic fencing

▲ Driving a heavy gate post

▲ Tidy work erecting a stock fence

▶ Meeting the challenge of hard conditions as all the material is moved to the circumference. This is particularly beneficial when erecting a post in looser made-up ground with a high degree of stone or rock hardcore for example, or when erecting security fences on industrial sites. The same benefits apply when ▶ Driving a 3.6 metre post working on recreational grassland where there is no major disturbance of the site or soil to be removed. "The Bryce Hole Puncher System has allowed us to secure all the domestic fencing contracts with a local property developer because we can do it for half the price" said Gethin.

▶ Hole puncher working on recreational ground

▶ Installing metal sockets

"The Bryce is not overpriced for what it is. I keep my ear to the ground and study the design and specification of what else is on the market, but from my experience to date, the 180 Pro is the one to go for as far as a dedicated post driver is concerned."

"After two and a half years of ownership and hard use, there is literally no noticeable wear which is true testament to good design and build quality plus it is well-balanced and tracks well across slopes".

"There is just so much to like about the 180 Pro but the combination of exclusive features and hitting power are what make it stand out in the crowd".

G Lloyd Fencing
Mobile:07920053881
gllloydfencing@gmail.com

For more information about Bryce visit
www.brycesuma.co.uk